

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A task and personnel verification and tracking system and method receives a request for service; establishes a database account associated with the request; assigns an individual provider to perform service at a site; enters information about the provider and the service into the database; provides, to a carryable computer, information required to render the service; causes the computer to store provider data; causes the computer to store biometric property sensor information; enters into the computer information associated with service; stores information upon completion of the service; transfers stored data and information to the database; determines whether data and information transferred into the database match those previously stored; and updates data and information stored on the database.